THE BEATLES "ALL TOGETHER NOW"

Phenomenal is probably a weak description in describing what that fabulous four have accomplished. They not only revolutionized the entertainment industry, but also changed our way of life from wearing apparel to long hair. Starting in the 1950's in Liverpool, England they emerged to fame all over the world endearing themselves to millions during the 1960's. As remote as the Beatles may have seemed to us in Orleans County twenty years ago they did have their effect, inspiring other young budding musicians to emulate their style. For instance, many area residents will remember "The Humans" an Orleans County Combo made up of Gar Trusselle, Bill Kuhns, Marty Busch, Jack Dumrese, Dan Long and Dick Doolan who released a recording in 1966. If you are a Beatle fan or just care to reminisce about the 1960's, you won't want to miss a very special exhibit entitled the Beatles "All Together Now" which will be on display this Mother's Day weekend at the Cobblestone Museum in concurrence with the Cobblestone Society's Annual Art Show. May 10 - 11, Noon - 9:00 P.M. you can see pictures and memorabilia relating to these four men and their invasion of us. Arrangements for this exhibit which will open Friday evening at 7:00 with a public reception have been made by Steve Pahura with help from Tom Murray.
